Peruvian Amazon

The Peruvian Amazon is one of the most biodiverse places on Earth. This rainforest is home to a vast array of plants and animals, including monkeys, sloths, and jaguars. You can explore the Peruvian Amazon by taking a boat trip, going on a guided hike, or staying in a lodge.

Sagrada Familia

The Sagrada Familia is a Roman Catholic church that is located in Lima. This church is still under construction, but it is already one of the most popular tourist attractions in Peru. You can take a guided tour of the Sagrada Familia, or you can simply admire its beauty from the outside.

Lima

Lima is the capital and largest city of Peru. This city is home to a number of historical and cultural attractions, as well as a vibrant nightlife scene. You can explore Lima on foot, by bike, or by taking a guided tour.

Pisco Sour

The Pisco Sour is Peru's national cocktail. This drink is made with pisco, lime juice, sugar, and egg white. You can enjoy a Pisco Sour at any bar or restaurant in Peru.

Planning Your Trip to Peru

Now that you've learned a little bit about Peru, it's time to start planning your trip. Here are a few tips to help you get started:

- Decide when to visit. The best time to visit Peru is during the dry season, which runs from May to October.
- Book your flights and accommodation in advance. Peru is a popular tourist destination, so it's important to book your flights and accommodation in advance, especially if you're traveling during the peak season.
- Get a visa if you need one. Citizens of most countries need a visa to enter Peru. You can apply for a visa online or at your local Peruvian embassy or consulate.
- Learn some basic Spanish. Spanish is the official language of Peru. While you can get by with English in most tourist areas, it's helpful to learn some basic Spanish phrases.
- Pack for all types of weather. Peru has a diverse climate, so it's important to pack for all types of weather.
- Be prepared for altitude sickness. Peru is a high-altitude country, so it's important to be prepared for altitude sickness. Drink plenty of fluids, eat light meals, and avoid strenuous activity for the first few days of your trip.

Peru is a country with something to offer everyone. Whether you're interested in history, culture, nature, or nightlife, you're sure to find something to love in Peru. We hope this travel guide has helped you plan your trip.
