Big Ag, Big Tech, and Big Money are all part of a corporate oligarchy that is undermining our freedom in a number of ways.

1. They are suppressing dissent. Big Ag, Big Tech, and Big Money all have a vested interest in maintaining the status quo. They use their power to silence critics and prevent dissenting voices from being heard.
2. They are controlling our food supply. Big Ag is responsible for the production of the majority of our food. This gives them a huge amount of power over our health and well-being. They use this power to promote unhealthy foods and practices that benefit their bottom line, not our health.

3. They are spying on us. Big Tech companies collect vast amounts of data about our online activity. This data can be used to track our movements, target us with advertising, and even manipulate our behavior.
4. They are corrupting our democracy. Big Money has a disproportionate influence on our political system. This influence allows them to buy politicians and pass laws that benefit their interests, not the interests of the people.

The corporate oligarchy is a threat to our freedom. We must take action to recover our freedom and build a more just and equitable society.

Here are some things we can do:

- Support independent media. Independent media outlets are not beholden to corporate interests. They can provide us with the information we need to understand the world around us and hold power to account.
- Grow your own food. Growing your own food is a great way to reduce your dependence on Big Ag. It is also a rewarding and fun experience.
- Use privacy-protecting technologies. There are a number of technologies available that can help you protect your privacy online. Use these technologies to keep your data out of the hands of Big Tech.

- Get involved in politics. The best way to fight the corporate oligarchy is to get involved in politics. Run for office, volunteer for campaigns, and support candidates who will fight for your freedom.

We can recover our freedom from Big Ag, Big Tech, and Big Money. But it will take work. We must be willing to stand up for our rights and demand a more just and equitable society.
